

Care of the Older Client

Audioconference / College Module Enrolment Form

Wednesday 20th August 2008, 8.10pm to 10pm

"The characteristic of older people which distinguishes them most from younger people is heterogeneity; old age produces much more variation in physical and mental capabilities than is apparent within cohorts of younger people. In purely chronological terms there is no such thing as old age!" D Armour & C Cairns. Medicines in the Elderly. PharmPress 2002.

Presented by consultant pharmacist Andi Shirtcliffe, and Dr Althea Lord, Consultant Geriatrician, this course will cover a range of topics related to medicines use and disease treatment in the elderly.

The full Module-course will include a 'Basic Practice Update' booklet including such topics as prescribing in the elderly, effects of aging on drug elimination and activity, medicines adherence, polypharmacy, ADRs, 'inappropriate' medicines, continence, nutrition, treatment of various cardiovascular, CNS, mental health & other conditions in the elderly. A set of assignments will build on this and provide a mechanism for applying the learning in practice. Worth 50 College CE Credits. Enrolment in the audioconference only, will offer clinical cases and supplementary readings to guide our discussion through some of the topics above. Worth 5 College CE Credits.
